Editors final thought.

With the end of the summer in sight I am sure some of you will already be planning to head off to warmer locations in Europe for the winter months. For others there may be that last week away in October to look forward too. What ever you choose to do, don't forget to share it with us on the forum, and, if you would recommend the sites you have visited, forward them on to Will for addition to the maps.

Safe journey and see you on the forum soon.
